OLYMPIC DRESSAGE

Most of the remarks contained in this column are written with the hope that they may be of some practical value to those who read. The Grand Prix de Dressage Event of the Olympic Games which we discuss this week represents a standard of horsemanship so high, however, that only a handful of people can ever hope to take part in it. The top standard of any sport, on the other hand, establishes its special quality, from champions to beginners. Olympic standards from this point of view are therefore of immediate concern to all horsemen.

The often misunderstood term dressage includes the training of horse and rider at three general levels. There is basic dressage—teaching a horse to carry a rider, moving forward with freedom and fluidity, so that their combined weight is evenly balanced between fore and hind quarters; to develop suppleness beneath this burden, particularly in the spine; and to become responsive to the standard aids. The value of this basic training, universally practised for many generations in Europe, has in recent years found wide understanding and acceptance in the English-speaking countries of the world, due largely to the increasing popularity of the Pony Clubs and of Combined Training Events.

Basic dressage is the foundation for the more advanced training of horses for all branches of equestrian sport—polo, foxhunting, show jumping, horse trials—it is even used by many successful trainers of steeple-chase and flat horses. It is also the foundation for the two most advanced phases of equitation. One is the Grand Prix de Dressage, representing the most advanced movements on the ground—extended and collected gaits, traverses, passages, piaffes, pirouettes, flying changes. The second is Haute Ecole, seen to-day in the Viennese Spanish Riding School and representing the most advanced movements above the ground—levades, caprioles, courbettes, pesades, mezaires, croupades, ballotades, and caprioles.

We are here concerned with the event recently contested at the Rome Olympic Games the Grand Prix de Dressage and its advanced movements on the ground—movements above the ground being far too lofty for the aspirations of any except a small group of professional horsemen. Because the Olympic Committee decided to eliminate team competition in this event and to allow only two competitors per nation (a decision which we trust will be reversed for the 1964 Games) only 17 horses competed, representing Sweden, the United States, Germany, Switzerland, Great Britain, Portugal and Russia with 2 each, and Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Argentina with 1 each. Nearly 5000 spectators assembled at 8:00 A.M. on two successive days, the first to watch the 17 original competitors, the second to watch the five making the highest scores in a second round—both the Russians and single representatives from Sweden, Switzerland and Germany.

Grand Prix Dressage is the equestrian equivalent of international ballet and the audience was both enthusiastic and generous with its applause. Nevertheless the performances of these tests were not of a high order. Col. Podhajsky, head of the Spanish Riding School, who came from Vienna for both days, commented that Olympic Dressage reached its height in 1936. Responsibility for fielding National Olympic Equestrian Teams was then in the hands of the Military. The world's great cavalry schools were all in existence and there were plenty of officers assigned to year-round duty with their teams whose rank met the Olympic Committee's definition of an amateur rider. At that time Col. Podhajsky noted that 15 out of 32 horses executed correctly all the movements specified in the test. In 1960, however, they could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

Should we be using to-day approximately the same test we used in 1936? In almost all countries responsibility for Olympic Teams now rests on civilian rather than on military shoulders. The abolition of the cavalry and rising taxes have greatly reduced the numbers of officers and civilians who can comply with the spirit as well as the letter of the amateur rule. Our great cavalry schools of equitation are gone and we have almost no civilian institutions of comparable excellence to take their place. We live in a hurried era; Grand Prix Dressage, however, takes time—years of it.

For 1964 we need a test which corresponds more closely to the abilities of our best amateur riders and their horses. A simpler test with a consequently higher standard of performance is vastly preferable to the present test imperfectly executed—better for horses, riders and spectators, particularly for those spectators who are active

How to Buy a Race Horse

Raleigh Burroughs

One of the most capable all-around guys in the horse business is Mr. Alex Bower of Lexington, Kentucky, and its suburbs. Mr. Bower buys horses, sells them, writes about them and knows what he is looking for when he tells the groom to "walk him up and down."

It is no trick to get the handler of a for-sale yearling to march the young animal hither and yon - I've done it myself, because it is part of the ritual of inspecting racehorses. Handlers are paid to render this service, and are not expected to be able to sort out potential buyers from mere inspectors, though one smart enough to make the distinction would save himself a lot of walking.

Generally, it is not necessary to go around asking horsesellers to take out their yearlings and walk, trot and canter them for you. You will stay out of discussions that could be embarrassing if you wait until somebody else makes the request. Then, you should take up a position where you can get a good fore-and-aft view of the horse in action, maintaining a skeptical, but pleasant, expression at all times.

If some idiot should ask, "What do you think?" you reply, smiling sadly, "You never know until they get on the track." Ben Jones couldn't put it more sagely.

Persistent, Isn't He?

Should the same imbecile inquire "Don't you think he toes out a bit?" your response is (spreading your hands, palms up), "None of 'em are perfect." He wouldn't expect a better answer from Max Hirsch.

I've been getting away with it for years.

People who have horses walked for them and know what secrets may be revealed in the brief amble are the real experts in the equine world, and are looked upon with admiration and envy.

Essentially, causing a horse to come out of his stall under its own power gives proof positive that the animal is alive, a condition considered most desirable by knowledgeable horsemen.

There is a lot more to it than this, though, as Mr. Bower explains in his new book, "How To Buy A Race Horse." It is a primer for those who have the yen to go into the horse business, and a text book for advisers of owners-to-be.

It will be a comforting volume to have where a look can be sneaked if you ever get to be a buyer-adviser.

I am a bit provoked at Mr. Bower for waiting until 1960 before putting out his book. I needed it badly one year ago when I was pointed out as a horse expert and didn't have the decency to deny it.

Talked Well

I marked the man's sales catalogue, mentioned "Pharamond II, Swynford and things like that," and even prompted the poor fellow's bidding.

When the ones I'd picked went too high, I thought I was safely over the hump, but by that time the owner-to-be was frantic. He HAD to buy a horse.

"How do you like this one?" he demanded when a bay colt was brought into the ring.

Without even looking at the catalogue, I said, in what I considered noncommittal tones, "He looks like a good, solid colt."

That was last October.

This past July, the gent I launched into horseracing came to me and said, "That one you said was a good solid colt must have been hollow. He's eaten three thousand dollars worth of food."

Gained Caste

Since then, the young horse has won a race and I'm back on the pedestal.

I may be asked to advise again this year.

If I do, I'll have Mr. Bower's handy reference book along.

"How To Buy A Race Horse" has the answers to most of the questions.

It tells what to read, how to get a trainer, how to appraise a horse by its appearance, how to read a sales catalogue and how to mark up a catalogue so it will look like you know what you are doing. This is particularly useful to advisers.

There are chapters on breeding your own horses, the types of races offered by the tracks and the cost of owning and running a Thoroughbred.

It is a book that everybody associated in any way with racehorses should read and is exactly what persons eager to get into racing have been hollering for ever since Queen Anne's time.

Mr. Bower also devotes a chapter to "Taxes and Horses" which explains that when a "horse is retired from racing and is then used for breeding, the unrecovered cost should be written off over the remaining term of its total expected useful life of ten years."

I mention that point to show how thoroughly the author has gone into the subject.

He is guilty of one inexcusable oversight in his tax chapter, however. He does not explain how to dodge the income tax man after you have won ten G's in the "Pic Six."

I am happy to forgive him for this, because he reveals a trade secret that will probably get him thrown out of the Expert's Union; he tells exactly what you look for when the groom brings out a yearling and walks it up and down.

"How To Buy A Race Horse," sells for $1.95. It is published by the Cromwell Bloodstock Agency, P. O. Box 679, Lexington, Kentucky.

I predict a large sale for Mr. Bower's book and a great deal of parading yearlings up and down in the years to come.

ANNIVERSARY

An irate lady seeking a divorce told the judge: "My husband thinks of nothing but horses from morning till night. Why, he doesn't even remember our wedding date." "That's a lie" shouted the husband. "We were married the day 'Twenty Grand' won the Wood Memorial." M. P. J.

Aquaduct

Twelve fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and upwards, held the spotlight at Aqueduct on Wednesday, September 21, in the 7th running of The Maskette. The handicap stakes was run at scale weights at a distance of one mile, with a $25,000 added purse.

Mooring Stable's highweighted Tempted, in at 126 pounds, was the favorite, and she defeated Cain Hoy Stable's 3-year-old filly Make Sale, carrying 118 pounds, by a neck. A half length further back was F. J. Viggiani's Craftiness, who nosed out H. P. Headley's Rash Statement for show money. Tempted's time was a brisk 1.35 3/5 for the mile.

The winner is a chestnut 5-year-old mare, by *Half Crown out of Enchanted Eve, by Lovely Night, bred by Christiana Stables. H. S. Clark trained the mare and jockey E. Nelson was the winning rider. The victory was worth $19,200 net. Tempted is now a winner of $327,835.

Woodward (Sat., Sept. 24)

Seven of the country's top ranking handicap performers left the starting gate in the 7th running of The Woodward, a weight for age stakes, at one and one-quarter miles, with a purse of $100,000 added.

Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle went into the race an odds-on favorite, but could only add the show money to his career earnings. Eddie Arcaro rode Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer to a one and one-half length victory. Arcaro kept Sword Dancer off the pace and gave him a rousing stretch ride to finish in front of C. V. Whitney's Dotted Swiss. Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle was two and one-half lengths in back of the second horse, and one length in front of L. L. Haggins 2nd's Careless John, who set the pace for a mile. The fifth horse to finish was C. V. Whitney's Tompion, followed by C. R. McCoy's T. V. Lark. Mrs. Mabel C. Scholtz's Warhead was in last place in the field of seven. Sword Dancer ran the 1 1/4 miles in 2.01 1/5 seconds, lopping off two-fifths of a second from his own track record, which he set last year in July.

The winner is a 4-year-old chestnut colt, by Sunglow-Highland Fling, by By Jimmey and was bred by his owner. Elliot Burch trains him. The net value of the purse was $71,730. Sword Dancer now has $818,590 for his career, and it places him in 7th position in the alltime leading money winners.

Atlantic City

Atlantic City Race Course staged its 9th running of The Longport Handicap on Thursday, September 22. The handicap stakes for 3-year-olds and upwards, at a distance of seven furlongs, carried a purse of $20,000 added.

Ten sprinters went postward in this one and W. Hartack rode Howell E. Jackson's Tick Tock to a length and three-quarters victory over Circle TWP Stable's Prize Host. Calumet Farm's favored On-and-On finished in the number three position, followed by Rokeby Stable's Seven Corners. The winner's time for the seven furlongs was 1.2 2/5.

Tick Tock is a 7-year-old brown gelding, by Double Jay out of Up Early, by Sun Again, at Howell E. Jackson's Bull Run Stud, Middleburg, Va. E. A. Christmas trains the gelding, who collected $15,415 net for his victory and boosted his lifetime earnings to $435,796.

Pageant Handicap (Sat., Sept. 24)

The 15th running of The Pageant Handicap at Atlantic City drew a field of ten 3-year-old fillies. A handicap stakes, it had a purse of $25,000 for a mile and one-sixteenth test.

F. W. Hooper's homebred Teacation, ridden by B. Baeza, got in front in the stretch drive and outfinished J. M. Roebling's *Be Cautious by a half length. Howell E. Jackson's Funny Bone was in the show spot, and Wheatley Stable's Leix took away fourth money.

Teacation is a bay daughter of *Quibus-Teaching, by Education, trained by C. R. Parke. The score netted $18,452.50.

Lincoln Downs

April Fool Farm's April Skies won the $10,000 added Rhode Island Handicap, at Lincoln Downs, on Saturday, Sept. 24. The event for 3-year-olds and upward was run at a distance of one and one-sixteenth miles. The winner marked up a new track record of 1.43 3/5 for the 1 1/16 miles. This was two-fifths of a second under Tennessee Kid's record, set in 1947.

April Skies is a dark bay gelding, by Tiger or Hannibal - Thendara, by Requested, bred by E. K. Thomas. The 3-year-old is trained by G. W. Semier and E. J. Knapp was the rider. The victory netted $5,300.

Hawthorne

Twelve 3-year-olds and upwards started in the 31st running of the Illinois Owners Handicap at Hawthorne Park, Cicero, Illinois, on Saturday, September 24. The purse was $25,000 added and the distance, one and one-sixteenth miles.

The winner, Heroshogala, set a new track record of 1.41 3/5, four-fifths of a second under the old mark. Heroshogala, owned by Mrs. Mary Keim and ridden by jockey Herbert Hinojosa, finished a length and one-quarter in front of Mr. and Mrs. David Feldman's Prioply, ridden by W. Zako. Priscilla D. Willis' sturdy little campaigner, Little Tytu, who set a world's record for the six and one-half furlongs on September 17, at Hawthorne, was third; J. L. Rotz was his rider.

Heroshogala is a 3-year-old chestnut colt, by Noble Hero out of Coosawatchie, by *Hypnotist II, bred in Florida by Elmer Heubeck, Jr. It was his first stakes victory and netted his owners $21,050.

St. Paddy's Easy St. Leger Victory

Peter Towers-Clark

By a facile victory in the richest ever St. Leger, worth 30,378 pounds to the winner, Sir Victor Sassoon's Derby winner St. Paddy proved himself the outstanding three year old in Britain and with earnings this season of over 71,000 pounds is now next below *Tulyar as the greatest stakes earner in England in a single year. In what is unquestionably a sub-standard Classic generation, it is by no means easy to assess just how good St. Paddy is, but one point that is uncontested is that at Doncaster he defeated his eight rivals with contemptuous ease and that the final Classic can seldom have been won more easily.

Since the Derby, St. Paddy has had two races. First he was unexpectedly defeated at Goodwood by Kipling, who then ran so badly in his next race that he was withdrawn from the St. Leger. Then, three weeks ago he won the Great Voltigeur Stakes from the non-classically engaged Apostle, whom he met at level weights and defeated by only three-quarters of a length without seeming to have much in reserve.

But whatever interpretation one placed on these efforts, it was difficult to see how St. Paddy could be defeated in the final Classic unless perhaps, like his sire Aureole, he found the distance too far. His seven English and Irish-trained rivals seemed to present no serious bar to him, the best being John McShain's Die Hard who had finished in sixth place in the Derby, seven lengths off the winner. So for want of anything better the French-trained Anaram (Auribar-Estremida, by Djebel), belonging to Marcel Boussac, was installed as second favorite on the strength of two victories from three starts including the important Prix Eugène Adam over 1 1/4 miles. Rather surprisingly, in the final minutes, St. Paddy's price extended from 2-1 on to only 6-4 on, whilst those who supported him on the machine had the welcome surprise of finding that he paid odds against.

Sir Victor Sassoon also started Off Key whose task was assumed to be to slow down the pace rather than to hot it up. This jockey E. Smith certainly did for as soon as he had taken up the running he settled Off Key down at a very steady gallop, with Spartan Green second and St. Paddy fourth. Soon afterwards Piggott took St. Paddy into third place and with a mile to go Off Key, Spartan Green and St. Paddy in that order were some two lengths ahead of the rest of the field, with Anaram one of the last two.

Spartan Green had taken the lead as they turned into the straight four and a half furlongs out, with St. Paddy going very easily and even before he swept through, just inside the quarter mile post, it was clear that the race was over. Die Hard meanwhile came through with a nice run that carried him up into second place, but Piggott was coasting along in front on a tight rein and could allow himself the luxury of taking three glances over his shoulder to see what had happened to the opposition. Scoring one of the easiest victories ever recorded in the race, St. Paddy passed the post three lengths ahead of Die Hard in the proverbial canter, with Sir Winston Churchill's Vienna a further 1 1/2 lengths away. Last of all struggled in the disconsolate Anaram, who throughout the race had never raised the slightest hope nor ever left one of the two last places.

This was the first St. Leger victory for Sir Victor and for Lester Piggott who had missed the ride on Never Say Die after winning the Derby on him because he had been suspended for rough riding on this same horse at Ascot. He has now won every Classic except the One Thousand Guineas whilst Sir Victor now has a "full house". By the young Royal horse Aureole, also responsible for the third horse Vienna, St. Paddy is to stay in training next year when the Coronation Cup and the King George VI Stakes will be his main objectives. Remembering the prestige that Parthia lost through his four year old campaign this year, Sir Victor is all the more to be admired for his decision and let it be hoped that his dual Classic winner, who will not race again this year, will further enhance his reputation. By the end of next season we shall be in a position to decide whether St. Paddy was such a good horse that he made the rest of his generation look second rate or whether he was merely the best of a bad lot.

PRETTY POLLY LINE

German yearling Sales will be held on Friday, September 30 at Cologne-Weidenpesch racetrack with 108 horses on sale. Average last year was 6,000 DMarks (1,500 dollars) with 20,000 DMarks top price (4,750 dollars).

There are some yearlings British and American buyers should be interested in, such as Silvera (Neckar-Sylvia by Bois Roussel). Silvera is half-brother to Souperi, winner of the Ascot Gold Cup, Doncaster Cup, Goodwood Cup and Gold Vase.

Another obvious choice is Saharet Polly (Asterios-Shepherd's Choice, by Marsyas). Her fourth dam is the great Pretty Polly. She has a very fast half-sister (by Migoli) in training.

The filly Prairie Rose (from the Italian Oise-Prairie Song by Pinza) has as fourth dam Frankly who is a half-sister to the great stallion *Blenheim II. The mare Prairie Song herself is a half-sister to High Veldt, winner of Thirsk Classic Trial Stakes, 2000 Gs-Trial Stakes and Houghton Stakes, second to Ribot in the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes.

A wonderful stakeswinner prospect seems to be the filly Natter (Waldspecht-Nahetal by Nuvolari). Nahetal is half-sister to German Derby winner Neckar and now leading stallion in Germany. She has such fine relatives such as the other Derby winners of the N - strain, i.e. *Nereide, *Nordlicht, now a stallion at Idle Hour Farms, Louisiana, and the Washington D. C. International competitors Niederlaender and Nisos. The fourth dam is Nella da Gubbio, closely connected with unbeaten Nearco and Niccolo dell' Arca.

If you are looking for a flying filly that is Annabell (Magnat-Amie by Athanasius). She is an own sister to best short-distance performer Adlon who took this year all the big sprinting events - Oertzen-Rennen (7 f), Silver Whip (7 f) and Golden Whip (6 f) carrying top-weight.

From the Santa Brigida-line is Muskatnuss (Feuerball - Muskatblute by Ticino). Feuerball is a stakes winner in Germany, Belgium and Denmark. Muskatblute was the winner of the German 1000 Guineas winner and her third dam is Melanesia, own sister of Drift, second dam of Gulf Stream and dam of Helropolis and thus related to Menow and Shannon II.

There is little doubt that horse No. 99 will be the thriller of this sale. The filly Sheffield (Black Tarquin - Sol d'Or by Solaro) has Fair Simone as her third dam. She is a half-sister to Skyclory, the taproot mare of the Sheshoon and Charlottesville pedigrees.

Shouldering 141 pounds, 5 over the handicapper's allotted 136, Rythmn Master led over the 9th and final hurdle, with Caste 3 lengths in his wake. Drawing away in the run to the wire, the winner registered by 4 lengths in the good time of 4:47 1/5. Closing rapidly under Scott Riles, *Villena gained place honors, 5 lengths ahead of Caste. Alfred H. Smith's Freschal and Mrs. June H. McKnight's *Darubini completed the field. The latter, coupled with Caste as the D. M. Smithwick-trained entry, failed to show any speed, trailing throughout.

A 4-year-old gelding by Yildiz-Temper Red, Rythmn Master redeemed his previous outing at Aqueduct, where he fell and caused apprentice Richard Widger to suffer a pair of fractured wrists. It was his 2nd success of the season. Previously Rythmn Master entered the winners' circle at Saratoga when he finished 2nd to Mrs. June H. McKnight's *Palladio and the latter was disqualified.

Turf Race

The 1st sanctioned race on the program, the Gladstone, brought out a field of 11 for the 3/4's of a mile test over turf. Moving to the front soon after the break, Mrs. William C. Riker's Podarces resisted bids from Mrs. T. A. Randolph's Walrus and C. Mahlon Kline's Galley Hill to win by 1 1/2 lengths under James Murphy. Galley Hill held on to be 2nd, 3 lengths in front of Walrus, who was tiring and just managed to save 3rd money with a neck advantage over George T. Weymouth's Swing Fever. The winner was timed over firm turf in 1:21. Mrs. Riker, owner of the winner, is the mother of the popular Audrey Riker, owner of last year's timber racing champion, Golden Fly.

Having saddled Podarces, trainer D. M. (Mike) Smithwick made it a double by sending out the Llangollen Farm's home-bred, Mosby, to win the Harry E. Harris, a 1 3/4 miles race for maiden hurdlers. Taking command over the final 2 hurdles in the flight of 7, Mosby responded to A. P. (Paddy) Smithwick and drew away to score by 8 lengths. Best of the balance, C. Mahlon Kline's Gowran was 2nd, just 1/2 of a length in advance of Alfred H. Smith's fast-closing Me Broke. The winner graduated the maiden hurdle ranks in 3:13.

Only 6 of the 9 starters completed the course. The 1st mishap was registered when the fractious Eastertide ran off the course with amateur rider Talbot J. Albert, III. The next to leave the race was L. Clay Camp's *Tantot, who broke down during the running. The final casualty was brought off over the final hurdle, where Jack Bahlle's Topscotch fell with apprentice Levi Keen. The latter had the wind knocked out of him, but did not sustain any visible injury.

Duvall's Valley Hart, Mrs. E. D. Ceballos' Barge Toter and Samuel R. Fry's recently-purchased Melbrooke, left the timber test an open race for the six acceptors. Feeling at home in the country where he has been hunted for the past three years, Mrs. Wilfred Wood's Latin Lancer made his 2nd start over timber fences a winning one.

The early pace in the 3-mile event over 16 timber fences was furnished by Talbot J. Albert's Clean Home, with the eventual winner forcing the pace. At the half-way mark, Clean Home tired, permitting Louis Neilson, III, and Latin Lancer to assume the pacemaker's chore. Much the best of the group which had been reduced to four contenders, the erstwhile hunter moved away from the small field to lead over the 16th and final fence by 20 lengths. Drawing away in the run to the wire, Latin Lancer registered a 25-length decision in the 38th running of the race which carried a $1,000 purse. Having passed the tiring Clean Home over the 13th obstacle, Paul C. Baldwin's Fairplex finished 2nd, 20 lengths ahead of Clean Home. The latter was 3rd, with Samuel F. Pancoast's Charming Breeze a distanced 4th and last.

The first of two casualties during the running was brought off over the 1st fence, where William D. Hail's Full Stop came down with apprentice J. Hey. Making a debut over timber and "short" for the grueling route, Mrs. Carol Batson's Conda Kit fell over the 13th. The latter's rider, C. Fromel, went to the Somerset Hospital with a suspected dislocated shoulder.

A 6-year-old gelding by Phalanx-Roman Matron, Latin Lancer returned to racing this fall after 3 seasons in the hunting field with the Essex Fox Hounds. His previous competitive outings ended at Garden State Park in 1957, where he raced without success as a 3-year-old. The winner is trained by H. C. (Jiggs) Baldwin III.

Wilmerding Memorial

Riddled with scratches, the renewal of the $2,000 Wilmerding Memorial Cup found only 5 of the original 18 nominees going postward in the 2-mile hurdle handicap.

Adeptly handled by Thomas Walsh, current leading 'chase rider, Charles W. Stitzer's home-bred, Rythmn Master, registered a 4-length triumph in the event and picked up a net of $1,280. Best of the balance, Mrs. Jack Grabosky's *Villena closed well to gain place honors, 5 lengths in advance of the veteran Caste, owned by the Arcadia Stables.

Taking the lead at the break, the eventual winner led the small field until the 5th hurdle, where Caste moved to the fore with a head advantage. The latter led by a scant margin over the 6th and 7th

ECONOMIC BAROMETER?

With so much talk of recession these days, it's interesting to note the theories propounded by various racing officials and authorities (who shall remain unnamed) and who consider themselves experts on the thorny subject of the nation's economy. They theorize that if betting is constant, everybody has money to spare, but if betting is good only around payday, a recession is with us. (The solution to this would appear to be to have more paydays, or less dead time in between.) E.O.

EQUINE PRACTITIONERS' MEETING

More than 150 doctors of veterinary medicine attended the American Association of Equine Practitioners' mid-year meeting during the American Veterinary Medical Association's annual convention in Denver August 15-18.

Covered in the general discussions was the looming threat of African horse sickness in this country, new research in equine diseases, recent developments in Thoroughbred, Harness and Quarter Horse racing, and new medications.

Next annual meeting of the Equine Practitioners will be held December 12-14 at the Westward Ho Hotel, Phoenix, Arizona. A full three day professional program is planned. The meeting is open to all veterinarians interested in equine practice. A record attendance of more than 400 is anticipated.

IRISH DERBY, 1962.

It is expected that America will be well represented in the above classic, which due to a gift from the operators of the Irish Sweep, will be the richest Derby ever, and probably the best endowed event for 1962 in Europe. Lt. Col. P. A. Mulcahy, whom I do not associate with Irish racing, has been appointed secretary of the co-ordinating committee and liaison officer for the various sub-committees. Undoubtedly, the Sweeps Authority expects to derive considerable publicity and long term profit from this "benevolence". The Irish Sweep is illegal in the U.S.A. P. de B. O'B.

FOUR VICTORIES, THREE TRACK RECORDS

English-bred *Circitous solidified his claim as the greatest record smasher of the 1960 Western Canada racing season when he romped to an easy win in the Star Phoenix Handicap at the Saskatoon meet. It was his fourth victory of the season and his third track record. Already holder of both five and seven furlong track marks at Calgary's Victoria Park, *Circitous, owned by Tom Morrison, had little trouble outdistancing the field of five in the 7-furlong feature in a time of 1.30. This clipped two fifths of a second off the previous top time. E.O.

Cecil County Breeders Fair

Chris Wood, Jr.

Offering a pleasing little horse show in the morning and a well-balanced program of racing in the afternoon, the 2nd and concluding Saturday of the Cecil County Breeders' Fair was held at Fair Hill, Md. on Saturday, September 17. Favored by good weather, a crowd of nearly 6,000 filled the grandstands on Willian duPont, Jr.'s fox hunting estate to witness the program held for the benefit of the Union Hospital in Elkton.

The 39th running of the Manly Steeplechase Handicap, transplanted from Pimlico, and the 12th running of the Cecil County Steeplechase shared the spotlight on the program which offered pari-mutuel wagering under sanction of the Maryland State Racing Commission.

The latter feature attracted 7 cross-country campaigners to vie for distribution of the $2,500 purse, richest timber event on the hunt racing circuit.

Cecil County Steeplechase
Permitting Paul C. Baldwin's Fairplex a moment of glory as he followed him over the 1st of 16 timber fences by a half-length, Mrs. Virginia M. Duvall's Valley Hart held command for the balance of the 3-mile journey, defeating William D. Hall's Full Stop by 1 1/2 lengths. Running 2nd to the eventual winner over the last five obstacles, Samuel Branhams' Harkimell tired badly to finish 3rd, an even 10 lengths in the wake of Full Stop.

Able handled by rider-trainer James Hruska, Valley Hart was pressed in the early stages by T. J. Albert's Clean Home. The latter's endeavour was concluded when he attempted a sharp turn into the 11th fence and slipped and fell on the flat. His rider, apprentice James Tyler, who won a maiden timber race with the 'chaser at Rose Tree last May, was not injured in the mishap, which was the only spill on the program.

Following Clean Home's departure from competition, Harkimell, under apprentice Charles Linton, moved up to threaten the leader. Although both were tiring in the final stages, Valley Hart had enough left to respond to the urging of his rider, who appeared to have had enough at the conclusion. Passing the wilting Harkimell after the 16th and final fence, Full Stop, under Louis Neilson, III, went after the leader, only to be 1 1/2 lengths in the rear as the wire loomed overhead. Strung out behind the mentioned trio were Fairplex, Mrs. E. D. Ceballos' Barge Trotter and Samuel F. Pancoast's Charming Breeze.

Running over lush and firm turf, the 7-year-old gelding by Mr. Bones-Robin Ann registered 6:06 1/5 on timer George Brook, 3rd's watch, to better the mark of 6:08 4/5 set by the fleet Golden Fly over the revamped course on the preceding Saturday. The winning effort gave Valley Hart 3 points in the United Hunts Racing Association's timber division awards to bring his total to 12. This figure places the 'chaser from White Hall, Md. in a tie with Randolph D. Rouse's Ricacho for current first honors. Although it was the year's initial victory for Valley Hart, the gelding has been consistent in his races, finishing 2nd on 4 occasions and 3rd once, preceding his triumph, which netted his owner $1,605.

The Manly Steeplechase

Finishing 3rd to Lord Mike in the opening day's brush race, George T. Weymouth's Mystical Gem came back to easily handle 8 competitors in the 39th running of the $3,500 added Manly Steeplechase Handicap. Handled in an adept manner by the veteran rider, Robert S. McDonald, Mystical Gem drew away in the final yardage to defeat the Barclay Stable's *Ballybrittas by 4 lengths. A winner over hurdles at Aqueduct in his last outing and making a debut in the silks of F. Eugene Dixon, Jr., *Petrified 2nd finished 3rd.

Following *Ballybrittas over the 1st of 14 brush fences by 3/4's of a length Mystical Gem went to the front with *Petrified 2nd, under Thomas Walsh, constantly threatening. The latter tired after the 12th fence and Evan Jackson sent *Ballybrittas after the leader, to be 2 lengths away as the 14th and final jump was negotiated. Running like a fresh horse, Mystical Gem drew away in the stretch to score by 4 lengths. The Barclay Stable's Irish import held the place award safe, 4 1/2 lengths to the good of *Petrified 2nd. Earning a net sum of $2,655 from the gross purse of $3,905, the winner was timed in 4:02 3/5 to register his initial victory over brush fences.

Flat Races

As usual the meeting opened with a pair of flat races, and both had bulky fields. The opening event, a 1 1/16 miles turf test at handicap weights fell to C. Mahlon Kline's *Galley Hill with Lester

THE CHRONICLE

Graham in the irons. Breaking 2nd behind Mrs. Henry Obre's On The Lawn, under Kenneth Field, the pair ran as a team with their 14 competitors strung out behind. Responding to Graham in the stretch, Mr. Kline's Irish import got up to score his first victory on American soil by 3/4's of a length. Best of the balance, On The Lawn held the place safe, 3 1/2 lengths to the good of Mrs. Theodora A. Randolph's Black Andy. Making his first start since winning at the Adjacent Hunts session in 1959, Walter M. Jeffords' Bakht broke down in the early stages of the race, which was run in 1:45.

Suffering a nose defeat by Mrs. Leverett Miller's Sunny Rhodes on the opening day of the Fair Hill meeting, Mrs. James P. Mills' Brew was the 1st of 3 noses on the wire in the 2nd race, a 7 furlong event for allowance horses. Taking command by a slight margin as the front-running Irish Soldier faded in the stretch, Brew photographed best in the picture which had Alfred H. Smith's Marsala and Mrs. Jack Grabsky's *Epervier noses behind him at the finish, as named. A field of 20 contested the issue which was garnered in 1:31 4/5.

A field of 7 hurdlers, running for a claiming price of $3,500, came out for the Fairview, a 1 3/4's miles test over 9 hurdles. Coming from 4th over the 3rd hurdle, the North Hill Farm's home-bred Welstead graduated from the maiden hurdler ranks under an excellent ride from young William H. Turner, Jr. Resisting a mild bid from Arthur Norden's Prince Nam in the final stages, Welstead cleared the final hurdle 2 lengths in advance of his nemesis and drew away in the stretch to win by 7 lengths. Prince Nam held the place award safe, 2 1/2 lengths in front of Mrs. Jack Grabsky's *Villena. The latter was away last and remained in that position for 1/2 of the journey. Closing well in the final stages, the French-bred mare just managed to nose out Sidney Watters, Jr.'s *Marso as jockey Murt Hoey let up on his mount in the final yardage. The winner was timed in 3:09 1/5.

Registering a double for the day for trainer Morris H. Dixon and a 2nd straight winning effort at the Fair Hill meeting, C. Mahlon Kline's 3-year-old home-bred gelding, Cathness, turned back a group of older campaigners to win the Battleship. A field of 7 contested the final race on the card, a 1 1/2 miles test over 7 hurdles. Coming from 5th in the early stages, Cathness responded to Edwin Deveau to be a head behind Richard W. Trapnell, 3rd's Granny's Will over the final hurdle. Answering Deveau's urging in the stretch, the sophomore drew away to win by 2 lengths. Closing well in the stretch, Joseph L. Aitcheson, Sr.'s Contrary Jane got up to be 2nd, a neck in front of C. R. Linton's *Cafre II. Granny's Will tired badly in the stretch to be 4th. In chalking up a second straight victory over hurdles, Cathness negotiated the route in 2:42 4/5.

Steeplechasing at Aqueduct

John E. Cooper

(Sept. 12-17)

Making every fence a winning one, C. Mahlon Kline's lightly weighted Gridiron reached the end of the two mile Broad Hollow 'cap two lengths in front, registering an upset over the high weights, Sun Dog (148 lbs.) Benguala (150 lbs.) and Neji (162 lbs.), which shared the minor portion of the $15,000 added "chase in that order.

After an injury abroad early in 1959, Neji was turned out for about a year, then was put in training for a fall campaign this season. He made his 1960 bow in the Harbor Hill on September 1st. Carrying 164 lbs., he showed a very creditable effort behind Cartagena to whom he conceded 21 lbs. On the strength of that race, in which he appeared short, the public backed him down to 11 to 20 in the Broad Hollow. Although moving up in class, he carried top weight of 162 lbs., but less than in most of his races in the past several years. However, his disappointing showing was probably due to a very serious bobble midway around which all but unseated Paddy Smithwick.

Six Start In Broad Hollow

Six starters were sent off to a smooth start with Gridiron (136 lbs.) reaching the first fence a neck in front of Basil Bee (131 lbs.) The Dixon-trained fencer widened this to about 2 lengths around the first turn and into the far side. Sun Dog, under Joe Aitcheson raced in third position, followed by Out of Reach (133 lbs.) with Evan Jackson. In fifth place, Albert Foot kept a snug hold on Benguala as did Smithwick on Neji a length or so further back. Setting a moderate pace, and jumping well Gridiron led by daylight going down the far side with the remainder of the field in close attendance. Continuing to race in the order mentioned, the field curved into the front side the second time to meet the seventh fence. Going into the wings about half a length off Benguala, Neji appeared to misjudge the fence and got in deep. It was the type of mistake which will throw a jumper down four times out of five, but displaying an inborn sense of balance, which he has shown several times before, the ten-year-old gelding stayed on his feet although his nose came within inches of the ground. Smithwick also did a very professional job in getting his seat back and the pair raced on to the next jump without losing much ground. Out in front Gridiron raced with the latter pair going to the final fence.

THE CHRONICLE

Dog up on the outside to be third, Eddie Deveau asked his mount for a little, retained his position on the rail and curved into the far side the last time with about half a length lead. At this point Basil Bee started to drop back, and Gridiron again opened a daylight lead with Sun Dog in second place. However, by the time Gridiron cleared the last fence on the backstretch and headed for the turn, Sun Dog was again lapped on him with Aitcheson vainly trying to get to the front. In contrast, Gridiron running easily, held his advantage under a well judged ride from Eddie Deveau, who asked him for just enough to retain his inside position half a length in front. Behind this pair Benguala and Neji were under a drive three or four lengths away. Midway around Evan Jackson made a convincing move on Mrs. Henry Obre's Out of Reach and ranged up with the latter pair going to the final fence.

Straightening out for the last one Deveau set his mount down for the drive and Gridiron responded willingly and increased his advantage to a length and then daylight from the final fence to the wire. Sun Dog held on well but was being overhauled by Benguala which got to within three quarters of a length of him. Neji was two lengths further back and showed little of his powerful stretch drive. A length away, in fifth place, Out of Reach ran a surprisingly good race, and might have been closer had he met the last jump well.

Time for the Broad Hollow was a modest 3:53 1/5, four seconds off the course record. However, to protect the turns, which have been well cut up after three weeks of racing, the portable railing was set in place on both turns, and to an extent which probably added about two full seconds to the time.

"Dooley" Adams Entry Wins

On Tuesday, September 13th, "Dooley" Adams started a horse in his name and colors for the first time, and it was a first time starter, Last Page by Morocco Bound, an ex-jumper from Gamelle. Ridden by Joe Aitcheson, the three-year-old was rated off the early pace set by Mr. Fair, then was moved closer to the front in the closing stages when *Duggan's Dew 2nd took command. Challenging the latter going to the final hurdle, Last Page went to the front easily and then drew out to win by eight lengths. The runner-up, *Duggan's Dew 2nd, racing for Allison Stern, was ridden by the apprentice, Richard Garioch, and showed a good effort, finishing well in front of Foots for third, with Praeseppe, the favorite, a well beaten fourth, after racing prominently to the final turn.

The following day, trainer J.V.H. Davis had better luck when he saddled Allison Stern's Naval Treaty for a clever win in the Jungle King, a mile and seven eighths test for non-winners of two. Bob

UNITED HUNTS

Nomination blanks for the trio of stakes to be contested during the United Hunts Racing Association's two-day session at Belmont Park (Oct. 20-21) were distributed to owners and trainers.

Foremost in the group is the $50,000 added Temple Gwathmey Steeplechase Handicap for four-year-olds and upward, to be decided on Friday, Oct. 21. Run over the grueling two and a half miles brush course, the spectacular race adds lustre to Belmont Park's fall program as the world's richest steeplechase. The L. E. Stoddard, Jr., a one mile and seven-eighths hurdle race for sophomores with a purse of $10,000 added, will also be contested on Oct. 21.

On Thursday, Oct. 20, the nine-race program will be highlighted with the 23rd running of the New York Turf Writers Cup. Carrying a purse of $15,000 added, the hurdle handicap for four-year-olds and upward will be run over the two-mile distance.

Nominations for the three stakes close on Saturday, Oct. 1, with John E. Cooper, steeplechase and hurdle racing secretary, Belmont Park.

LAUREL INTERNATIONAL INVITATIONS

It used to be, when Mr. Schapiro's Washington International was getting started, that Mr. Schapiro had to beat the bushes for horses to come and run in the race. Now, people from all over write to him asking if they can get their horses in.

Mr. Schapiro has had requests for invitations from India, South Africa, and just about anywhere else you want to name. He has also heard from places like Jamaica where owners are looking forward to the day when they will have horses which are good enough to be invited.

One of those hoping for an invitation was a president of one of the Central American republics. He sent his personal envoys up to talk to the Laurel people about the possibility of receiving an invitation for one of his Thoroughbreds.

I don't know whether the president's horses were of a quality to justify their being asked to compete, but the question never really came to the floor because the president fell victim to the prevalent Central American political disease, assassination. Probably saved Laurel the embarrassment of turning him down. You don't suppose Mr. Schapiro sent his envoys down to Central America to "take care" of the man, do you? R. J. Clark

RACES FOR ARABS

In England a while back there was a Lady Wentworth who wrote about horses, particularly Thoroughbreds and Arabs. Aside from being fraught with errors like "America was discovered in 1493" and aside from being frightfully dull reading, Lady Wentworth's writings did indicate her deep interest in both Arabs and Thoroughbreds. If anything, I think she was more in love with the Arab. Her references to other types, with the exception of Thoroughbreds which she considered as sort of Arabs gone wrong, were most scornful.

If Lady Wentworth were around this country right now, she would be having a ball.

In Maryland last year, I think it was at Laurel, they started having races for Arabs as a supplement to the regular program of races on the big day of a meet. In the case of Laurel, the race for Arabs was on the day of the Washington International.

The Arabs start out of a gate and run something like two and a half miles with regular jockeys in racing silks up. No betting.

After this bit got started in Maryland, it was taken up elsewhere like in Chicago and in Florida. The latest track to enter the Arab picture is Lincoln Downs. Lincoln is having a race for Arabs on October fifth. That will warm the beasts up for another crack at each other at Laurel on

Armistice Day (or Veterans' Day or whatever it is called now.)

I saw one of these and they make a fine spectacle and it gives people who otherwise wouldn't have a chance to do anything but look at or possibly ride their Arabs the opportunity to see the beautiful animals run.

McDonald was the winning jockey, and he held the three-year-old close to the pace-setting *Kandy-Sugar. Surging to the front over the last hurdle, McDonald kept his mount under a drive to the wire where his winning margin was a widening two lengths. *Kandy-Sugar had no difficulty for the place, but Happy Lion, which finished third, raced well over the longer distance and defeated *Esteco 2nd and Sky's Rhythm.

In a race the previous week, *Teynham, racing for Sanford Stud Farms, was eliminated when his saddle slipped after about a half a mile. Eventually, his rider that day, James Walker, came off when his mount ducked into the center field. Making amends for that effort on Friday, September 16th, *Teynham defeated a field of maiden hurdlers going a mile and seven eighths. Held close to the pace, Joe Aitcheson sent the English-bred into command midway down the far side, and then withstood a bid from Best Hour and Richer by Far in the stretch. The former was the stronger of the two and finished two lengths behind the winner and a length

HUNTING

Bryn Mawr Hound Show

Preamble

The Fortieth Annual Bryn Mawr Hound Show was held at the Radnor Hunt Club on Friday, September 9, 1960.

Due to lack of entries from different exhibitors sufficient to provide competition, the Committee regretfully decided to cancel all of the English and Cross-Bred Foxhound Classes. It is the hope of the Committee that these Classes will be resumed at next year's Hound Show. The involvement of a number of Hunts in the cubbing season also cut down on the entries in the American Foxhound Classes.

All in all, the Show was a good Show and, from comments that have been received, was considered well judged.

The matter of the date of next year's Show will be submitted to an early meeting of the Hound Show Committee, as there appears to be growing sentiment for an earlier date.

The following accounts concerning the different Classes have been prepared by persons knowledgeable in the hound categories who have asked to remain anonymous.

The American Foxhound luncheon was well attended.

American Foxhound Classes

Four packs of American Foxhounds were shown at the Bryn Mawr Hound Show. These were Brandywine Hounds, Mrs. Jane Mather Sullivan, Master; Middleburg Hunt, Newell J. Ward, Jr., Esq., Master; Orange County Hunt, Charles G. Turner, Esq., Master; Potomac Hunt, William E. Carroll, Esq., Master. Orange County carried off the majority of the silverware, winning both the Lawrence E. Jones Challenge Trophy for the Champion American Foxhound Dog bred by Exhibitor with BAGMAN 1956, and the class for Champion American Foxhound Bitch with NOSEGAY, the winner of the Unentered Bitch Class. Champion American Foxhound of the Show was awarded to BAGMAN 1956. Orange County won the Fourth Masters of Foxhound Challenge Cup For The Best Five Couple with Potomac, second and Middleburg, third.

Although three packs were entered in the Pack Class, this seemed a much closer event than had some of the previous classes for individuals. Orange County showed a remarkably level, uniform, sound, fit pack which handled without a flaw.

Considerable emphasis seemed to be placed by the judge upon working characteristics. The Orange County entries were put down to perfection being not only fit and sound, but with enough show yard presence to command attention. Few packs of American hounds have been shown in better condition or in better form.

One of the surprises to many spectators was the Entered Bitch Class won by Orange County JEALOUSY over their MINDFUL, second, and their BEESWING, third. Potomac TWEET TWEET, Champion American Foxhound in 1959, 1958, 1957 and winner of the Unentered Class in 1956, was placed Reserve. This was a very strong class with considerable favorable comment directed at MINDFUL, a lovely bitch. One thing must be said for the Orange County entries - they all stood on their own feet and they looked like fox killers, ready to run.

Joseph T. Murtagh, M.F.H., of the West Chester Hounds, West Chester, Pa., and James R. Kerr, Jr., former Master of the Rose Tree Fox Hunting Club, Media, Pa., judged the well-filled Penn-Marydel Foxhound classes at the Bryn Mawr Hound Show last Friday.

As a breed the Penn-Marydel Foxhound has always had a beautiful eye and well-domed head which denotes his intelligence; now after twenty-six years of careful and selective breeding the graceful neck, good shoulder, compact middlepiece, strong quarters and good feet balance the fine head and brave heart which heretofore proved his ability and courage to hunt a fox. It is a tribute to those who have persevered in the breeding and showing of this American Foxhound that they have developed an individual that could always hunt, but now can show in any company.

The Champion of the Penn-Marydel division was Mr. Jeffords' Hounds DAN 1959, an attractive, trim athlete, hunting fit without an ounce of excess fat to either color or condemn him. The Reserve was Radnor Hunt Club's WONDER - 1959, a black and tan bitch, who to the eye of this beholder was much too fat, long, slack in the quarters, but with a lovely head and front.

The Unentered Hounds this year were particularly attractive, one Mr. Jeffords' Hounds EILEEN through an error in the catalogue was not shown in the class for single bitch, unentered; if she had been in this class she would have won it; and therefore would have been a possible threat to the Champion, most certainly to the Reserve.

The Pack Class was won by the Rose Tree Fox Hunting Club; second - Mr. Jeffords' Hounds; third - Radnor Hunt Club. Millard Heller, the huntsman of the Rose Tree, is to be congratulated upon the good manners, evenness, trim appearance and gay sterns of his Five Couple.

ROMBOUT HUNT, Inc.

Salt Point,
New York.
Established 1925, 1929.
Recognized 1931.

Saturday, September 3 started off Rombout's cub-hunting season most auspiciously, although only a small field met hounds at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Howson. Two foxes popped out of the first covert drawn to set the pattern for the first five cubbing days of the season. The fox selected by the majority of hounds gave the field a fast spurt through Howsons' and Meyers' properties to the Russell farm, where hounds rattled the fox around the woods for a while before putting him in. Juniors out included Dennis Quinn, Alicia Kershaw, Stevie Klima, and Norah Carlyle, and Robby Kay.

Labor Day saw a slightly larger field meet at Mrs. Clark Melville's, and again two foxes were driven out of the first covert, and a third fox was viewed in the course of the run. Hounds moved very fast through the woods and orchard, but worked somewhat more slowly through Horton's swamp to Magistro's, where the fox doubled back into the swamp and gave us some welcome hill-top listening. Connie Babian was out for her first hunt on the very sensible pony "Lucky Star."

Wednesday, September 7, only five members could make the 6:30 a.m. meet at the Kay farm, but these found it most worthwhile. The first covert held the usual two foxes and the pack divided almost evenly. Whip Meg Kay and Courtney Howson, whose staid mount was acting as tranquilizer for Meg's green horse, went with the first section of hounds out of the covert and had a very fast run to the edge of the only farm in the area on which we are not allowed, where, fortunately, the fox made a couple of circles in the forbidden cornfield and came back to the southern edge of the Meyers' property where hounds marked him in. Weaver, an entry of last year, was working particularly well. In the meantime, Huntsman Bill Kay, Joe Quinn, and young Bill Kay had come out of the covert more slowly with the second group of hounds and had a very satisfactory circular-type run before the fox popped in. Young Bill Kay viewed a third fox, a cub, but hounds remained with their original fox. Getting all hounds back together, we drew Kays' swamp and were rewarded with another short run. By this time it was quite hot so we called it a day.

Saturday, September 10, saw a good-sized field meet at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinn's home. The big swamp was the first draw, and again two foxes were on foot. However, this is a huge covert with no way for horses to get to the bottom of it, so it was impossible to get hounds together. They had fun, and we enjoyed some good music, but we really didn't go anywhere. Mrs. Putnam Davis, who rode her first horse a year ago, was out for her first day's hill-topping and is likely to become one of our most enthusiastic fox-hunters.

Wednesday, September 15 was a pleasant day with the usual two foxes out of the first covert. Hounds split, but were brought back together for a nice little run. The next draw produced only one fox, who evidently went to ground in Howson's woods although the den could not be marked. The third fox of the day also headed for this area, and hounds again stopped speaking at the same point, so it is likely a den exists there.

The season has been very satisfactory so far. Runs have been fast enough to blow out the horses, but not long enough to exhaust them, and foxes are more than plentiful with a happy scarcity of deer. Fencer, one of this year's entry, has fitted right into the pack, and his sisters are improving every day. Grania

WEST WINDS TRAIL RIDE

Seven competitors started in the first annual forty mile trail ride which was held in the Genesee Valley on Labor Day. The ride followed the Genesee River to a certain extent with the route going through Geneseo, Avon, Caledonia, Retsof and Cuylerville. Much of the going was on hard dirt country roads past some very lovely views of the Valley. All horses returned sound within six and a half hours from the starting point. The judging was made on condition and degree of fitness with Doctor David Davis giving the physical examinations. Van Zandt Knight, a long time member of the Genesee Valley Hunt, was the guiding light for this ride. He planned the whole event right down to slightest detail. A more elaborate ride is planned next year, with a division for juniors and seniors. However, this year's competition was an excellent start and was expertly managed. The winner was an aged mare named Confusion, owned by the Hickory Hill Farm, second was Peter Piper owned and ridden by Mrs. Edward Harris, third was Kitty Mouse owned and ridden by Mrs. V. Knight and fourth was Gypsy Hill owned and ridden by Mrs. David Davis. All the riders were residents of the Genesee Valley.

Monmouth County

Close to 200 horses and ponies competed in the Monmouth County Horse Show at Oceanport, N. J., held on the grounds of lovely Wolf Hill Farm, which is owned by the Monmouth County Jockey Club. The "farmhouse" itself is a treat to behold, nestled among stately shade trees. The house has been beautifully redecorated and contains some of the most mouth-watering horse prints you ever saw - every one a museum piece.

Down a gentle slope are the informal show grounds, from which one catches a tantalizing glimpse of the impressive grandstand of Monmouth Park Race Track. (No use to play hookey, though, for the race meet had ended by the time of the horse show.)

The second and final day of the show was held under sunny, albeit pretty hot skies, but the first day, devoted mainly to children's events, was made difficult by Hurricane Cleo, who dropped her calling card as she roared out to sea. There were deluges of rain throughout the day, turning the ring into no less than a quagmire through which the youngsters struggled pluckily.

Olympic Prix Des Nations

Alexander Mackay-Smith

As the shadows moved across the greensward and gaily painted fences in the center of Rome's Olympic Stadium, a bay Thoroughbred mare tiptoed down the ramp beneath a pink coated rider. The crowd which filled every seat and aisle of the arena suddenly hushed with anticipation. For this was Halla, the great Halla, who with Hans Gunter Winkler had won virtually every international jumping event in the world, turning in a perfect second round to win the 1956 Olympic Gold Medal when her rider, groaning with pain from a rupture sustained during the morning round, was just a passenger. Now the German Team was leading; if Halla and Winkler could produce a good round, the Gold Medal would be theirs.

The calmness with which they saluted the judges and walked about, waiting for the starting bell, suggested a ride in the park rather than the tensest moment of the Equestrian Olympic Games. Following the bell they trotted leisurely through the electric eye of the starting gate, broke into a slow canter and slid over the first fence. Only two minutes were allowed to negotiate the 14 obstacles (17 fences in all), spread over 2 1/2 circuits of the arena, causing concern as to whether the slow pace would be offset by the mare's raking stride. When Winkler finally let the mare go approaching the water where so many had failed, she instantly took fire, flew over with a yard to spare, but quickly steadied herself to resume the original pace. At last only the final fence remained, the biggest spread of all, painted poles over water. It looked like the only clean round of the 101 turned in that day, but the far pole came down when the mare dropped a foot. The deafening applause which followed the pair out of the arena was impressive, but conveyed nothing new. When Winkler relaxed before Fence 14, Halla knew they already had the points - that Germany had won the Medal.

It is interesting to compare the course used for the Individual Jumping Competition at the Piazza di Siena on Wednesday with the course used for the Team Competition at the Olympic Stadium on Sunday. Each consisted of 14 obstacles comprising 17 fences. The obstacles were similar in general type - an in-and-out, a triple, a water, spreads with and without water, straight up and down walls and gates. A performance analysis of both sessions, supplied through the courtesy of Wilbur Hubbard, M.F.H., indicate that the standard of accomplishment, as measured by fences jumped clean, was about the same for both sessions - 61.6% on Wednesday as compared to 63.8% on Sunday. Certain obstacles on Sunday were much harder, however, such as the in-and-out, both spreads with a false ground line at the in, which only 16.8% of the contestants were able to jump clean, as compared with 33 % with perfect performances over Wednesday's less difficult combination. Sunday's wider water jump (the tape was also 6 inches beyond the water) produced an achievement standard of only 27.7 % as compared with Wednesday's 31.8 %. A map of the course appears below.

Before Sunday's Prix des Nations the favored teams had been Italy with the D'Inzeo brothers and Antonio Oppes; Germany with young Alwin Schockemohle added to the veterans Thiedemann and Winkler; England with Pat Smythe, David Broome, a sensation on Sunsalve at the summer shows, and Dawn Palethorpe Wofford on the American-bred Hollandia; and the four horsemen of the United States, Bill Steinkraus, Hugh Wiley, George Morris, and Frank Chapot, the first three being favored to ride. Hollandia blew up after hitting the third element of the triple and turned up lame, however, so Charles Barker was substituted on Franco. The American problem was more difficult. Riviera Wonder, our best horse except for water jumping, turned in a sulky round on Wednesday, so in his place went the magnificent old Ksar d'Esprit, lent by Miss Eleo Sears, unbeaten in Puissance classes this season, but rather too big a horse to negotiate the turns of Italian course design. Because his Nautical, one of the world's great jumpers, was laid up with digestive trouble, Hugh Wiley on Wednesday rode Mr. and Mrs. Barney's Master William whose performance was considerably better than Riviera Wonder, but still not of medal calibre. So Coach de Nemethy met the situation squarely and for Wiley substituted Frank Chapot on the U. S. equestrian Team's Trail Guide, 19 years old, but as honest a jumper as ever looked through a bridle.

There was no stopping the Germans, however. Winkler on Halla was, of course, brilliant, while Fritz Thiedemann gave old

The Piazza di Siena, set amid the extensive gardens of the Villa Borghese in the heart of Rome, is reputed to be the most beautiful show ring in the world. Certainly the setting is breathtaking - the bright green rectangle of turf; interspersed with the brightly painted obstacles and their surrounding flowers, the color of the ladies' dresses in the tightly packed stands, the ochre Baroque pavilion with its clock tower, and the background of dark green pines, flat topped and with rose colored trunks - all this surmounted by the azure sky for which Italy is famous.

The course set up to test contestants for the Individual Jumping Medals of the Olympic Games on September 7th was also typically Italian - sharp turns with obstacles at irregular intervals. Down the long side in front of the judges were two introductory fences - poles on hedge (1) and poles on brick wall (2) followed by a stiff brick wall (3) in the middle of the short side. Swinging sharp left there followed three obstacles across the diagonal, none of them in line - a 16 ft. water with a short and angled approach (4), followed four strides later by a straight up and down garden gate surmounted by a pole (5). The two preceding fences were well calculated to get a horse off stride for (6) a spread, rustic poles 5 feet apart with a low wall in the middle presenting a false ground line. After rounding a beacon on the short side, the course turned right across the diagonal, presenting a triple (7), the first element a brick wall; the second 28 feet away, requiring a single big stride, a triple bar, over brush; the third, 32 feet away requiring two short strides, an oxer, both spreads being 5 1/2 feet. A long gallop to the far side of the ring, a 6 foot spread of birch poles with water between (8), around the short side and then three obstacles in line on the long far side - a spread of rustic poles 5 feet wide and high (9), a 5 1/2 foot black and white board jump with a pole on top (10) and an in-and-out (11) with one stride in between, both elements being 5 1/2 foot spreads, the "in" poles over brush in a box, the "out" poles over a gate. In the middle of the short side followed a 5 foot rustic gate (12), then a long gallop to a 5' 9" wall (13) in front of the judges' stand, and finally a spread of poles 5' 9" with a lower bank in between (14), also presenting a false ground line.

An analysis of the performances, kindly compiled by Mr. Wilbur Hubbard, M.F.H., reveals that 61 horses representing 21 countries negotiated the course in the morning; after eliminations and withdrawals 36 competed again in the afternoon. During these 97 rounds there were 60 performances penalised at the triple (7), 56 at the water (4), 54 at the final jump (14) and 51 at fence (6), the last two accounted for by false ground lines.

At the in-and-out (11) 48 performances were penalised, the above figures illustrating graphically the difficulty of the course, particularly in view of the fact that the horses and riders competing are the greatest in the world.

In international jumping circles Italy means the D'Inzeo brothers who for the last decade have been invincible in their own country and among the greatest in world competition. Representing Italy in its premier show ring, they rose to the occasion of the Olympic Games, Raimondo having the only clean performance (morning) of the 97 rounds and amassing a total of 12 faults to win the Gold Medal, riding Posillipo. Brother Piero on The Rock had 2 fences down, 1 in the morning and 1 in the afternoon, was in the water twice, and received altogether 16 penalties, which earned him the Silver Medal. The ovation which they received from their countrymen and from the assembled visitors was mov-usually brilliant horse was in the water both trips, had 2 fences down, refused 3 times and incurred substantial time penalties.

Noted from the ringside: - several horses knocked down the spread poles at 14 when they tried to bank the mound in the middle. Among many falls, that taken by Ringrose of Ireland was noted for its ease and elegance. Charmeuse jumped so big at one fence that on take-off shed dislodged the hat of her rider, Juan Martinez de Vallejo of Spain. Salih Koc of Turkey riding Polat earned the Sobriquet of the Terrible Turk when he ploughed through the triple smashing the first element to bits. The luckiest rider was the last; Julian, ridden by German Mailhos of Uruguay, knocked a pole 18 inches into the air with his front feet and back into the cups with his hind feet. After the colorful ceremony presenting the medals to the strains of the Italian National Anthem, the public had an opportunity to examine the fences, thus bringing together a congress of course builders, self appointed and otherwise.

ing indeed. The D'Inzeo's are great stylists in the classic manner, their riding being most often compared to the style of the U. S. Team as polished by Coach de Nemethy; the Hungarian School in which he was trained was grounded on "Il Sistema" of Federico Caprilli whose disciple, the recently deceased Piero Santini, brought it to the U. S. and Canada. Third was the British youngster David Broome riding Sunsalve, a superb Thoroughbred with a tremendous jump and a tendency to rush his fences which Broome has brought under reasonable control.

Only 1 point behind the Bronze Medal winner was another young rider, George Morris of the U. S. on Miss Ellen Dineen's Sinjon, who was penalised at 3 obstacles in the morning and a like number in the afternoon. Hugh Wiley on Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barney's Master William had four more penalties. The 3rd U. S. rider, Bill Steinkraus on Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mann's Riviera Wonder, did not fare so well; this

Middleburg-Orange County Pony Club

An animated 'fun' Middleburg-Orange County Pony Club show was held Aug. 24 at Eglington (Mr. and Mrs. Nelson C. McClary) where the high point was a parents class judged by the blue ribbon winners during the day.

After months of listening to instructions, directives and straight orders, the tables were turned and the grown-ups were asked to walk, trot, canter, gallop and jump (if able). The winner of a bottle of soda pop was Clay "Barney" Brittle, Sr. - one of the most active and vociferous of the parents - with Paul Fout a close second. In the money were Jim Strother, Mrs. George Tener, Mrs. Bob McConnell, Mrs. Shelley Warren, Mrs. McClary, trailing behind the boys! Riding the smallest ponies available, the adults, legs draped around the ponies' middles, rocked around the ring with crimson faces and unsteady seats.

On the more serious side the championship went to Hey Boy, Mrs. F. A. Howard's workmanlike bay with Raymond Figgins aboard. Reserve to Skip Brittle on the sensational white Welsh Coed Coch Llwydrew, notable for an unpronounceable name and spectacular conformation.

The morning, given over to the D's, saw Deborah Maloney take home a beagle puppy, donated by Mrs. George Tener, as first prize. Daughter Penny Tener also won a class but did not receive a beagle!

The pair class, all sizes and colors, was won by Penny Tener and Punkin Lee riding matching spotted Sea Biscuit and Newsreel. Skip Brittle, riding Llwydrew and holding 2-year-old "Dougie" Fout on the pommel in front of him, jumped the course to receive honorable mention for a unique effort.

The Robert McConnell family cleaned up in the headline with Jenny first, Bob, Jr. second.

Over the Olympic course the veteran Mariachi, owned by Mrs. Crane and ridden by Priscilla Skinker distinguished himself to win the modified and "go as the winner" over the sofa, feed trough filled with hay, triple bar, barrels and other imaginative creations of the fence building committee.

Hunt Teams degenerated into total confusion what with raising and lowering the outside course for the large and small, while simultaneously hacking off for the championship won by Hey Boy. The bays entered by Priscilla Skinker won with chestnuts led by Susan Somers second. Dana Mooney was the winner of the trophy presented for overall sportsmanship and consideration during the day.

Afterwards everybody was invited to the manse of Mr. W. C. Stevenson where all agreed the committee, Mrs. McConnell, Fout, Ratcliff, assisted by Barney Brittle and Jim Strother and most particularly the judge, Mrs. A. D. Kennedy from Warrenton, had done a wonderful job towards making it a truly fun day for all. J.McC.

Western N. C. Pony Club

The rest of the Atlantic states were dodging Donna on Saturday, September 10. But ideal weather smiled on the Western North Carolina Pony Club's first one-day rally at Fairfield Farms, Fletcher, N. C.

Facilities of the farm were offered by Charles F. Johnson, owner, who had previously built, especially for the Pony Club, a great number of obstacles for stadium jumping and cross country courses. He had previously invited Mr. and Mrs.

Killinick - 7/8 Thoroughbred, 6 year old imported Irish mare. 16.3 hands. Heavyweight hunter. Excellent disposition. Hunted England and now being hunted in this country.

Samuel A. Bingham II, co-district commissioners, to use the facilities for the Pony Club at any time in any way they saw fit. Those attending remarked on the beauty of the place: gentle slopes up from both sides of a farm pond and the stadium jumping area set in a natural amphitheatre.

Fun was a major objective of the day, but additional purposes were to give local pony clubbers a chance at the type of competition they may encounter as WNC team members at inter-club rallies, and to bring WNC's widely scattered branches together geographically.

Fletcher is a fairly central location, really handy for Biltmore, the most populous branch with over 20 members; convenient for Tryon which had more than a dozen members competing; accessible for Black Mountain and Weaverville; right next door for Arden.

Canton branch pony clubbers were junior bridesmaids in the wedding of their instructor, Miss Patricia Morgan, to Lt. Kendrick F. Bellows, Jr., USMC, that evening, a conflict of dates that made it impossible for them to attend.

Biltmore was the winner for the day with 48 team points earned in nine events. Tryon was runner-up with 38 points. Forty-three riders competed.

A special feature of the day was the introduction to all assembled pony clubbers and their parents of two fine horses which have been presented to WNCPC by Kurt J. Heinicke of Hollywood, Fla. The tall brown Thoroughbred and strong young palomino are stabled in Tryon under the supervision of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Tryon PC Branch leaders. They are being used by pony clubbers now pending their sale. Proceeds of the sale of them is to go to the WNCPC.

Russell Walther, director of equitation at Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., and Camp Mondamin, Tuxedo, N. C., who is widely known to riders through the Riding Rating Center which he conducts annually at Mondamin, judged the day's events. He was assisted by Miss Mary Hill, a Converse student. She judged the cross country. It was run simultaneously with the dressage phase, a simple program ride judged by Mr. Walther. They were joined by Lee Corey in judging the afternoon events.

SUMMARIES:

Program ride - 1. Anita Humphries, Biltmore Branch, 129 individual points out of a possible 155, 6 team points. 2. Janice Higginbotham, Black Mountain, 116, 4; 3. Joel McCleary, Biltmore, 110, 2.

Cross country - 1. Gerald Pack, Tryon, 99 out of a possible 100 individual points, 6 team points; 2. Anita Humphries, Biltmore, 98, 4; 3. Toby Bridge, Tryon, 93, 2. Walk, trot - 1. Mimi Douglas, Tryon, 6; 2. Patty Massey, Black Mountain, 4; 3. Richard Michael, Tryon, 2.

Stadium jumping - 1. (tie) Toby Bridge & Gerald Pack, Tryon, 10; 3. Samuel A. Bingham III, Arden, 2.

Tough "n' tender relay - 1. Biltmore Team, 6; 2. Weaverville Team, 4; 3. Black Mountain Team, 2.

Bending relay - 1. Tryon Team, 6; 2. Black Mountain Team, 4; 3. Biltmore Team, 2.

Drill teams - 1. Tryon Team, 6; 2. Biltmore Team II, 4; 3. Black Mountain Team, 2.

D.G.H.

Two seat and hands classes, one for D-1's and the other for D-2's, Simon Says, Stadium jumping, drill team competition and two relay races filled out the day's schedule.

The cross country course was well planned and included a dozen fences. The stadium jumping course was highly complicated and varied. Spectators and participants alike congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Tom H. Humphries, Col. and Mrs. Stuart Smith and Mrs. Morgan Boyd, who had shared major responsibility for staging WNCPC's first one-day rally.

He changes the calm, placid ponies
To mettlesome fiery steeds,
Then they gallop the winds and the currents
At rapid and rollicking speeds.

Sometimes through the rain and the lightning,
The thunder will roll and you'll hear,
The galloping hooves of the wild one
And wonder if your horse is near.

When morning comes over the hilltop,
And sunlight spreads over the dale,
You might find a trace of the stardust
In a mane or a long flowing tail.

He leaves silver tracks where he enters,
An imprint outside of the door,
A sprinkling of stardust on thresholds,
And maybe a splash on the floor.

If you look very close in the morning,
When the fog covers all of the dew,
You may see a silhouette slipping
Out of sight in the shadowy hue.

Farmington Hunt Club Polo

Ed Lovorn

The Farmington Hunt Club polo team outlasted a powerful and determined Warrenton combination to win, by one point, a place in the Virginia State Polo Tournament finals. They opposed a Winchester trio which defeated the Virginia Polo Association in the opening match of the Sept. 16 double header at the Charlottesville indoor polo arena.

Fort Belvoir, the strongest club in Virginia, was forced to drop from tournament play because of transportation problems.

Farmington took on Winchester Sept. 18 at 3 p.m., at the FHC stadium to determine the state's top polo team. This year was the first time state-wide competition has been held. The annual tournament, named the Mary Gulick Memorial, is open to all Virginia polo clubs recognized by the U. S. Polo Association. It was only by constant aggressiveness that Farmington managed to squeak by Warrenton, 12-11. Given a one point handicap, the FHC quickly took the game in hand and led 8-2 at the end of the half in what looked like an easy victory.

But Warrenton snapped to life with chukker three and outscored the host club, 5-2, in that 7 1/2 minute period. Trailing by only three goals, the Warrenton riders expanded their brilliant offensive with the fourth period toss-in. Two-goaler Buzz Rogers brought the ball to the uprights and collected a pony goal, scored by a Farmington mount. Next Warrenton defense man Ed Staples picked up a loose ball at the goal to tap it through narrowing his squad's deficit. On a number four penalty against FHC, Rogers blasted his shot past the defender and tied the score at 10-10.

Farmington pulled out in front again as Herb Jones, who had started the contest off with three lightning quick tallies in chukker one, drove in his fourth point. Once again it was Rogers scoring for the visitors to even the figures at 11-11. With 30 seconds left in the match and the spectators cheering wildly, Carl Barrett scored the winning point for Farmington from a scramble in front of the goal.

In the first game of the night's double bill, Winchester seemed to have little trouble defeating Charlottesville's Virginia Polo Association, 10-6. Winchester was ahead 4-0 before the local trio could rally. Claxton Long picked up the initial point with a powerful forehand from 50 yards. But the hard-riding and accurate visitors proved too strong for their young opponents and were leading 8-3 at the end of period three and 10-6 with the final bell.

Polo School

Bill Briordy

The United States Polo Association, with Cyril Harrison serving as instructor, conducted a highly successful "polo school" at the Blind Brook Turf and Polo Club, Purchase, N. Y., in September.

Harrison, from Camden, S. C. - he has played for the Myopia Hunt Club, Hamilton, Mass. - cast a keen eye at young and old players, experienced and inexperienced. All phases of the game were covered, and Harrison also conducted blackboard drills. The experienced players assisted Harrison by assisting the young poloists.

Among the younger players on hand were Joseph Fields Jr. of Old Westbury, L. I. Fields, a senior at Georgetown, was captain of the intercollegiate team that played in Peru last year.

Also present were two men from the University of Virginia. One was Clayton Long of St. Louis, a member of the Cavaliers' varsity. Then there was Ray Walton of Larchmont, the stage and screen star; Bill Malone of Bethesda, Md., a television announcer, and a Yale law student, John Karol, Chappaqua, N. Y. Karol is new to the game.

Frank (Butch) Butterworth of Mt. Carmel, Conn., an experienced poloist and a member of Cornell's varsity; Leigh Schlusmeyer of Warrenton, Va., a freshman at Randolph Macon; C. F. Rank 2nd of Dayton, Ohio, and Jack Shaw, also from Dayton, were other participants.

A man who has played for four years, Kenneth J. Edwards, also proved a help because of his experience. Edwards, from Warrenton, is Joint M.F.H. of the Casanova Hunt. Also on hand was Allison Miller of Rockville, Md., a ten-year man in the game.

Nineteen players reported for "school" with the ages ranging from 19 through 30. The school was the first to be held at Blind Brook since 1947, and is expected to become an annual event.

Blind Brook, incidentally, will be the scene of the national inter-circuit and national 12-goal championships between Sept. 18 and Oct. 2.

Northeastern Intra-Circuit

Bill Briordy

The Meadow Brook Club four of Jericho, L.I., won the Northeastern Intra-Circuit 12-goal polo championship by checking Greenwich, 8 to 4, at the Blind Brook Turf and Polo Club, Purchase, N.Y., on Sunday, Sept. 4.

A four-goal sixth chukker clinched the victory. Devereux Milburn scored three goals for Meadow Brook. Adie von Gontard paced Greenwich with two tallies.

Held scoreless for the first half, Greenwich rallied in the fourth and fifth periods and tailed by only 4-3.

Dave Rizzo tallied for Meadow Brook at the start of the sixth chukker, but von Gontard kept the losers in the match with his second marker. But then Meadow Brook finished strongly with a three-goal output.

Milburn and Rizzo rode with John Gayer and Frank Rice. Von Gontard, Dave Ellis, Herb Pennell and Ray Koch formed the Greenwich side. Meadow Brook led by 4-0 at half-time.

Letters*"Only a Minor Role"

Dear Sir:

In her very interesting report on the U. S. Pony Club National Rally (The Chronicle, August 19, 1960) Miss McIlvaine McClary credits me with having been responsible for the importation by the U. S. Remount Service of the German horses after the war.

It was indeed a very fine lot of horses that was brought over, but I personally played only a very minor role in this transaction. Credit for the importation belongs entirely to Colonel Fred Hamilton, USA RET'D, then Chief of Remount.

Very truly yours,
Hermann Friedlaender
Soquel, California

"Bravo"

Dear sir:

Bravo, kudos, huzzah, et al for your aptly worded letter, "To Hell With Kids!" (Sept. 9, 1960)

From one "Sourpuss" to another I must say it's about time someone spoke up in defense of us "over-30's" as opposed to the demanding, discourteous and over-bearing kids that dominate the horse shows today.

Even when there is an occasional event for the adults the ribbon hungry kids have to get in it also and ham it up for the gallery. We sponsor, help organize and hold their horses, at least we're entitled to some fun of our own. When we have the "nerve" to enter a so-called "all-age" class we're looked upon as vultures from outer space, sent to earth solely to take unfair advantage of those poor defenseless show-hardened children. Phooey! We do it for the fun of it. What's their excuse?

Sincerely,
Also a Sourpuss
Mrs. H. S. Goldman

Equestrian Team Publicity

Dear Sirs:

As this is written, the U. S. Olympic teams (including the horse element) are in Rome awaiting the moment when they will do or die for the dear old red, white and blue. The sports pages and feature columns are full of swimmers, and trackmen and the newspapers tell of Princess Grace visiting her brother.

Maybe the local papers are ignoring copy coming to them about horses and riders. Seems to me that there is a pretty good feature story about the Olympic Village "annex" - the place where the horses are kept.

Maybe there wasn't someone around to feed the press a story about the people who ride the jumping classes. Of all Olympic sports - with the possible exception of bike racing - this type of competition is perhaps the most risky.

Then there are the stories about the beautiful and rich young misses who ride the dressage horses and the horseshoer who travels with the team so that the horses can have good old fashioned American shoes.

Come to think of it, maybe the reason there aren't stories in the papers, on television and radio is because somebody (meaning a good working press agent) isn't in Rome to see that these stories were given to the press.

Funny thing, too, the principal backers of the Olympic riding sports are connected with major companies having public relations departments devoting hours to news releases about company officials, products and what-not. Maybe they don't think good publicity now will make fund raising easier next time.

horsemen and who attend such events not only to see but to learn. There are more horses being used for sport to-day than ever before in history. Let us make sure, therefore, that the rules and conditions of sport change with the times.

ABOUT STEEPLECHASING

With the close of the major track steeplechase season only four weeks away, and the Grand National scheduled for Oct. 11th, and the Gwathney on the 21st, the 1960 championship is rather confused. *Muguet 2nd, an impressive winner of 2 stakes at Saratoga under high weights, is temporarily on the shelf with a foot injury.

Benguala, also a winner of 2 races this season, has not shown the form which made him the outstanding four-year-old of 1958.

Neji in his two starts thus far (Sept. 17) this year has failed to impress observers. Independence, who many considered the top fencer of 1959, has made only one start in the current season, placing third behind *Muguet 2nd and Hustle. A recently sustained foot injury raises the question of his ability to make a creditable showing in the fast waning season. Cartagena, a five-year-old, making his first season over brush, and a winner of his last three races, may be the one to receive the laurels if he defeats some of the more experienced "leppers" in his remaining engagements.

J. Gilbert Haus, for many years the general manager and "man about Rolling Rock" will be an absentee at the Ligonier Valley meeting this year because of personal and business reasons. John E. Cooper of the N. S. and H. A. together with his staff is pinch-hitting for Haus under the direction of W. C. Robinson, Jr., Race Committee Chairman.

George T. Weymouth, a spectator at Fair Hill the first day, flew to Greece where he is currently enjoying a holiday cruising the Aegean Sea.

Morris H. Dixon and his bride of a few days returned from a Bermuda honeymoon and were on hand for the second day's racing at Fair Hill.

The eleven timber horses which went postward in The Trouble Maker Steeplechase at Fair Hill was the largest field of timber toppers since Uncle Pierre won the 1955 Virginia Gold Cup against twelve others.

THE CHRONICLE

"I would have no objection," the profession's elder said, adding: "I like route racing, if we could only know they were going to fill. I believe a horse can race as often over a distance as in a sprint. A route is actually easier on most horses."

Trainer Gaver said: "I have heard it takes more out of horses to race a route." Whereupon Hirsch Jacobs thought: "A mile and a sixteenth to a mile and a quarter is easier (than a sprint) on a horse, but probably the longer routes, from a mile and a half up are more demanding."

Henry Clark agreed with Jacobs, but was reminded: "There are not too many route horses."

Cassidy then turned to the jockeys present and Eddie Arcaro said:

"Beyond a mile and a quarter, you must have a true route horse."

Kilroe noted that: "There are nine mile and a quarter races of $100,000 for 3-year-olds in the United States and six of these are in New York. If we do not have overnight races to develop material for them, the effect is obvious."

Everett Clay stated: "Distance racing certainly makes for better TV shows."

Promoting Distance Racing

At the recent annual Jockey Club Conference, George D. Widener presided and Marshall Cassidy served as moderator. The panel headed by Frank E. Kilroe and John J. Mooney had up for discussion the following topic: 1. In view of the established popularity of distance races over turf courses, and in view of the breeder's need for horses tested for stamina, can anything be done to persuade track management to strengthen distance racing programs on the dirt tracks?

John J. Mooney, general manager of the Ontario Jockey Club, opened the debates with the premise. "There are things which may be done to further route racing. It is possibly a question of salesmanship." He felt that perhaps a committee might well be appointed to sell individual tracks on the idea of presenting more distance competition whenever this is at all possible and play clearly shows that it increases in ratio to the number of distance (or middle-distance) events," Mooney stated. "Naturally this enhances the sport's appeal and the volume of purse distribution, in addition to serving the stud."

Kilroe concurred, except to point out that "Canadian racing has the advantage all the major racing is concentrated in one center. However, I would agree there might be something gained by such a program as Mr. Mooney outlines. Perhaps the different associations could establish a policy of listing three mile and a half races within a given period of time, say 10 days or two weeks."

Cassidy then sought the trainers' thinking, inviting Mr. Fitz to express his views.

THE FIRST DERBY

Two prominent Yorkshire owners sat up wine-bibbing late after Pontefract evening meeting last week, - so late that I was in bed when roused by an insistent telephone bell.

I found that there was a big bet at stake between them as to whether or not the first Derby was run on the old Isle of Man racecourse. I was to be referee - at 2 a.m. after a hectic week's racing! I had no need to consult the Calendar, or any other Turf reference books to settle the wager, and simply said (courteously I hope!) 'The first Derby was run in May 1780 at Epsom'.

Later in the morning I looked up some old authorities and found that it was the 12th Earl of Derby who was responsible for founding both the Derby and the Oaks. A predecessor (the 6th Earl), who had considerable territorial interests in the Isle of Man, in 1669, wrote to 'My Governor's deputy-Governor and ye rest of my officers in my Isle of Man:

"It is my good will and pleasure yt ye 2 prizes formerly granted for horse running shall continue". The race meeting was held on the Earl's birthday, and one of the races was the Derby Plate. This, however, had no sort of connection with the Derby Stakes at Epsom, which was only once won by the founder (in 1787). The honour did not again fall to the holder of the title until 1924, when Sansovino carried the black and white cap.

Incidentally, this was not the first Turf livery of the Earls of Derby for in 1780 green and white stripes was registered. The famous magpie colours were adopted in 1788.

the entire eleven days, ending October 22.

Lewis Finley will be the steward representing the Kentucky State Racing Commission and veteran official Jack Goode will work the final week, after Cassidy's departure.

"Mr. Racing", as Cassidy often has been called, is a director of The Thoroughbred Racing Associations; executive secretary and assistant treasurer of The Jockey Club; trustee of the Turf Foundation, Jockey's Guild Foundation, and the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association Foundation.

He has been widely acclaimed for his many contributions to the sport, which include inventing stall gates, innovating the film patrol and photo finish, running a school for racing officials, and acting as moderator of The Jockey Club Round

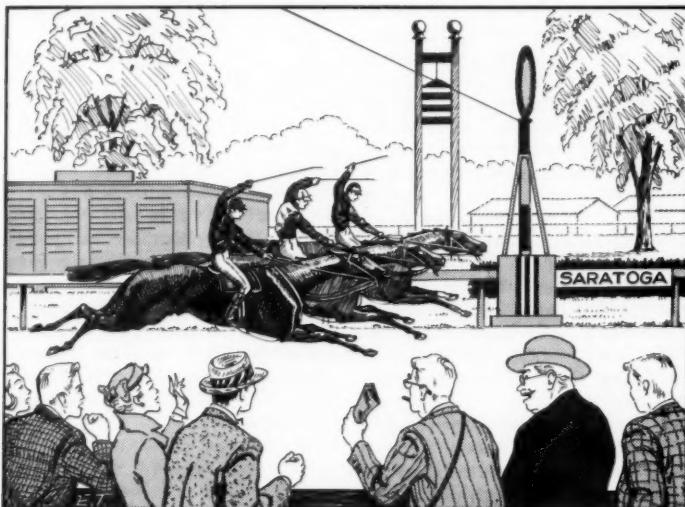

In that period, he went to the post with 23,661 mounts, winning with 3,795 of them. In eleven different years, Atkinson's mounts earned over one-million dollars.

For almost a full generation, Atkinson epitomized the ideal of what a jockey should be. A director and vice-president of the Jockey's Guild for many years, his contributions toward lifting the standards and public regard for his profession were immeasurable.

He was elected to the National Jockeys Hall of Fame at Pimlico in 1957.

Upon his retirement as a rider, he decided to become a racing official, attending the Jockey Club School for officials. Recently, he has served in various official capacities with the New York Racing Association tracks.

Atkinson has ridden at Keeneland on occasion and in the fall of 1950 was the winning rider aboard Greentree Stable's Big Stretch in the Breeders' Futurity.

"By gosh, I haven't seen a finish like that in ages!"

In racing, Cassidy has served as an assistant starter, entry clerk, clerk of the scales, patrol and paddock judge, racing secretary, handicapper and steward.

In 1934, he became steward for the New York Racing Commission, resigning in 1941 to assume his duties as executive secretary of The Jockey Club and steward representing The Jockey Club at all New York tracks. In 1957, he relinquished his duties as steward to become director of racing for the New York Racing Association, of which he also served as vice-president and secretary. Early this year, he resigned as director of racing to devote full time to his Jockey Club duties.

Atkinson retired from riding on January 16, 1959, after 21 years as a jockey.

Essex Hunt Races

The final event on the program, the Peapack at 1 1/4 miles over the turf, lured only a quartet of runners. Moving to the front soon after the break, Mrs. Henry Obre's On The Lawn, under trainer-rider Kenneth Field, resisted a brief bid from Mrs. June H. McKnight's *Narcissus 2nd at the 1-mile mark to draw away to an easy 5-length triumph. The latter held the place safe, 10 lengths to the good of Charles Hechter's Best Ace. Trailing throughout, Charles H. Wacker, III's home-bred, Wild Emperor, was 4th and last. Registering his 1st victory since he won an $8,000 claiming race at Delaware Park last July, On The Lawn negotiated the route in 2:06.

Pony Club Races

Preceding the sanctioned races, a pair of 3/8's of a mile events for active members of the U. S. Pony Club were run. The first race, for ponies 14.2 and under, fell to Jill Bailhe on Sugar Foot. Malcolm McC. Hirsh, Jr. was 2nd, riding his Fine N'Dandy, while Carole McNamara was 3rd on Jelly Bean. Sharon Manners riding her own Candy Bar was 4th.

The 2nd event, for horses over 14.2 was won by Gussie Barnard on H. Barnard, Jr.'s Lost Heritage. Connie Carden finished 2nd with Fire Fly, while Margo Bailhe on Genetic and Mary Louise Berliner on Linda finished 3rd and 4th as named.

CAPTAIN MARSHALL

Captain A. Mitchell Marshall, noted horseman and former honorary whipper-in of the Radnor Hunt, died August 10, 1960 at Nottingham, England, where he had been on an extended visit. He was seventy-four.

Captain Marshall commenced his service in the English Army, in the Yeomanry, at the beginning of World War I. He transferred from there to the 7th Queen's Hussars and participated in the Mesopotamia campaign, rising from the ranks to captain. He was severely wounded in this campaign. Following World War I, he came to America and was first associated with O'Malley-Knott at Millbrook, New York. Later he became associated with M. Roy Jackson, M.F.H. of Fairfield and Westchester, and continued that association when Mr. Jackson became M.F.H. of the Radnor.

He was a fine horseman, and among other firsts in this field he was on the winning hunt team at Madison Square Garden for three years in succession in the 1920's. He won many hunter trial and point-to-point events during his career. His interest and activity with horses continued until the very moment of his death, as he had just finished galloping horses on the beach, in England, when he suffered a heart attack and died.

He was a great sportsman and will be missed by his many friends. J. H. B. C.

Chronicle Cover

Our cover picture, by the well-known artist Patricia Herring Stratton, shows Mrs. J. H. McKnight of Cornwell Farm, Great Falls, Virginia, and her daughter, Tina, on Milly's Filly and Punkin. About the painting Mrs. McKnight writes: "It was painted at my farm at Great Falls, Virginia and includes my daughter, Tina, age 9, on Punkin, an ideal child's hunter, both in the show ring and in the hunting field. She is by Skyscraper and was raised at the Freds' place in Middleburg and broken and schooled by Dot and Mike Smithwick. The mare that I am riding is Milly's Filly, also broken, schooled and sold to me by the Smithwicks. She is also an ideal conveyance, both for me to hunt and for the children to show."

Mrs. McKnight is a daughter of John W. Hanes, Chairman of the New York Racing Association.

MEXICAN CHARRO FIESTA FOR U.S. CITIZENS

Ambassador Robert C. Hill participated in a special charro fiesta organized by the Mexican Charro Association, and celebrated Sunday morning, September 11, in honor of the American community in Mexico City.

Sponsored by Antonio Gil, president of the Association, and Antonio Aguilar, popular Mexican motion picture actor and charro rider, the Mexican style rodeo was staged at the Rancho del Charro with roping and riding events highlighted.

The Mexican Charro Association had extended a blanket invitation to all U. S. citizens touring and residing in Mexico to take part in the various events. And there was a turnout of several score of hardy "gringos" who fancied themselves as masters of fancy rope work, roping and throwing steers, and dexterous displays of horsemanship.

Alas, it cannot be said that the Americans shone in the event. The bulls and the horses had the best of it and that night would-be "charros" were applying liberal amounts of liniment and band-aids to sundry bruised parts of the body.

Ambassador Hill was more prudent; he confined himself to leading the inaugural parade.

ROYAL ALE FOR THE HUNT

Harry Eggins, who runs a butcher shop at Saltash, England, is selling some very special ale for the benefit of his local pack of foxhounds. One of the three bottles offered was brewed by the late King Edward VII on a visit to a brewery in 1902. The other two were the work of his grandson, former King Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor. The last time such royal brew was sold it brought 101 guineas ($282) per bottle.

Chronicle Olympic Tour

Gestuet Roettgen

Wednesday, August 24th, we took the Autobahn for Cologne where we were met by Phillip Alles, a frequent contributor to The Chronicle of notes on German racing. Mr. Alles handles virtually all German racing publicity - newspapers, radio, and television - for most of the tracks and for many of the principal breeders and owners. It was he who selected for us to visit the stud farms of Frau Von Opel (Aug. 23rd), at which was bred the 1960 Derby winner, and of Frau Maria Mehl-Muehlens, owner of Gestuet Roettgen and also of the world famous "4711" Eau de Cologne, a business started by the Muehlens some 250 years ago when 4711 was their street address.

We were most cordially received by the owner and by her husband Herr Mehl. Roettgen, established by her father in 1923, consists of about 2500 acres. Its pastures are high in clover (40% or better), each being surrounded by thick hedges which not only provide a windbreak for horses, but also shelter the spring grass which thus comes 2 to 4 weeks earlier. Horses thrive on this pasture to such an extent that they have a tendency to grow too big, to counteract which low legume hay mixtures are fed.

Roettgen races most of its home-bred and in 1959 and 1960 has been the leading stud and stable in Germany. Count Lehndorf is in general charge. With his uncle before him, as managers of the stud at Trakehnen (East Prussia), they were responsible for developing the world's greatest breed of Three Day horses, used by the Army as officer's chargers. Incidentally the 1960 Canadian Olympic Three Day Team is largely mounted on Trakehner horses, obtained from Poland, which now includes East Prussia within its borders. Count Lehndorf trains half the stable, concentrating on the fillies which will eventually be returned to stud. Although 78 he gallops several daily. The other half of the stable is trained by Count Piacewicz, who was away with his string at the track.

We saw first the magnificent covered dressage school which, in one form or another, seems to be an essential part of every major horse establishment in Germany. Next followed the filly barn, its stalls equipped (as are all boxes) with rollers on either side of the door opening to prevent hip accidents. Here we saw the two outstanding 3-year-old fillies Santa Cruz (Caran D'Ache-Stamesart), winner of the 1960 German Oaks and 1,000 Guineas, and Angelica (Caran D'Ache-Angela Viktoria), winner of the 1959 German Futurity and top of the Free Handicap. In the same barn was the 3-year-old chestnut colt Wicht (Caran D'Ache-Wappennau), one of the handsomest horses of his generation, who won the Grosser Preis von Baden-Baden, he will doubtless receive an invitation to compete in the Washington D.C. International at Laurel, Md. Also admired was a perfect giant of a Thoroughbred, Wettcoup (Caran D'Ache-Wacholdis), 18 hands, a top sprinter who ran a mile on grass in 1:35 7/10.

Next we saw the recently arrived stallion Watteau (Nimbus-Windsor Park by Windsor Lad), like the senior sire Caran D'Ache bred in Italy by the late Federico Tesio, who will make his first season in 1960. A three quarter brother to Nagarni, he won the Premio Ambrosiano and other good races.

Much admired were the (30) mares and foals and the large foaling stables, built around a covered courtyard in which they and their offspring are turned out for exercise during the early part of the season when the weather is apt to be bad.

Outside the high stone wall which enclosed most of the property is the 11 furlong grass training track, with an irrigation system, piped from a nearby pond so that all of it can be watered - a feature which contributed much to Roettgen's success during the 1959 dry summer.

After a delightful luncheon on the lawn adjoining the stud office, consisting of a soup characteristic of the locality eaten with frankfurter sausages, our host and hostess, who had done everything possible to show us the stud and to make us feel welcome, distributed beautifully wrapped packages containing the various 4711 products as parting gifts.

After visiting Cologne Cathedral we went on to Dusseldorf for the night. A.M.S.

Meteor two perfectly timed hand rides - a matchless exhibition. Young Alwin Schockemohle's two rounds on Ferdil totalled only 1 1/4 points more so the team ended up with 46 1/2 points and the Gold Medal. Considering that two out of their three horses were substitutes, our boys did splendidly, Frank Chapot and Bill Steinkaus turning in scores of 20 and 21 1/2 respectively, even better than the 24 1/2 assessed to George Morris on Miss Ellen Dineen's Sinjon, our leading pair at previous European shows this summer. This gave the United States a score of 66 and the Silver Medal. Raimondo D'Inzeo on Posillipo gave the greatest performances of the day, amassing only 8 penalty points and receiving a great ovation from his countrymen in the stands, but brother Piero and Antonio Oppes could not maintain this standard, so that Italy had to be content with 80.5 points and the Bronze Medal. 55 points further down, but nevertheless a surprising fourth, was the United Arab Republic, led by Gamel Harress riding Nefertite, a really top horse (bred in Germany) with a total of 24. Fifth and sixth were France and Rumania with 168.75 and 175.

Old Trail Guide was the hero of the occasion as far as the U.S. was concerned. The only horse owned by the U.S. Equestrian Team, he was bred by the U.S. Army, being by Scamp out of Trailoka, a mare who was a reserve horse at the 1936 Berlin Olympics. In 1956, ridden by Hugh Wiley, he made the best score for the U.S. at the Stockholm Olympics. Now 19 years old, he was shipped to Europe this year "just in case" he might be needed. He was, and under Frank Chapot again led the United States Team horses in performance.

*Mr. Paul Mellon's JOHN CONSTABLE will stand the '61 season at Newstead Farm, Upperville, Virginia. Here he will join the stallions Alquest, Armageddon, Duc de Fer, and Victory Morn.

His fee will be $500 Live Foal, which is certainly little enough when you consider his breeding.

He is by Nasrullah out of Painted Vale by Gainsborough and is thus a full brother to the great Musidora, who won the Oaks and the Thousand Guineas and £24,006. His second dam, Abbot's Glen, produced Glen Loan—winner of the Imperial Produce, Great Yorkshire, Rous Memorial, and 2nd in the Eclipse Stakes.
